New Data Connectivity Software Released

April 21, 2009 -- Pro-face America announces important support update to our factory floor HMI data connectivity software, Pro-server EX. Vista and Office 2007 products are now supported resulting in more visibility to the factory floor process. Pro-server EX is used by OEMs and factories worldwide as a very low cost solution to capture data on any machine and link into the plant's existing MES, ERP or SCADA software.

Customers can download this updated version from the Pro-face America support site for FREE!
